SALT LAKE WOMEN WILL PLAY "CINDERELLA"

Of course the members of the Alta club, or the Country club, or any of the other social organizations of the city, will not object if they hear a few pleasanties that hit close to the ribs at the performances of "Cinderella, or a Dress Rehearsal," at the Salt Lake theatre next Tuesday afternoon. The men of Salt Lake are supposed to be fair targets for any of the shafts that feminine minds may aim, even though the arrows turn to gentle personalities. It is generally conceded that women are entitled to the last word, but in this case they are to have all the words, sung or spoken. And nobody of any prominence need consider himself safe, as those who have seen rehearsals of the opera say that a pleasant surprise is in store for the Salt Lake public: that the show will be better than most people would believe possible with a local production and will compare favorably with a professional performance. The opera itself is unusually pretty, and a large amount of new and catchy music has been interpolated. "Dream On Sweetly, Cinderella," was composed by Professor Harry Sylvester Krouse, formerly of Salt Lake and now of New York, especially for this opera. Professor Harry Loisele has invented some new dances for this production and has trained the participants. One of the features of the dance is the "Fairy Ballet," which is danced by Edna Dwyer, Margaret Walker, Marian Oberndorfer, Frances Cunningham and Nalda Edwards, with Miss Sigrid Pedersen as the Fairy Godmother. Then there is the "Drill of the Natural Guardians," which is a take-off on the national guard. The members of the militia had planned to turn out in force to the performance, but they were ordered to Carbon county and consequently duty keeps them absent. Troop A, however, has loaned its flag for the occasion, and the banner will be carried at the head of the column of girls.

Harvey B. Holmes, coach of the University of Utah football team, has trained the girls in a short act which bears upon the gridiron.

The entire production is the conception of Mrs. Martha Royle King, the well known singer and teacher of music. She has written most of the new lines, selected and adapted the music, picked the participants and trained them, and, in addition to this, takes a prominent role herself. Mrs. King's personal ability in opera is well known, and in addition she has a reputation for discovering stars and developing talent. In one opera Mrs. King brought out Jennie Hawley, now playing leads with Francis Wilson; Sallie Fisher, the present star in "The Billionaire"; Julia Dean, now with the Vesta Tilly company, and Lottie Levy. It is said she has discovered some even greater operatic stars and comedienne among those who take part in the production next Tuesday, and the professional stage of the future may be enriched as a result.

Besides those already mentioned, those who take part are: Lillian Schanfelberger, Madge W. Lanus,

Edna Dwyer as the Prince and Madge W. Lanus as Cinderella.

Mrs. Martha Royle King, director of the opera, and "Mrs. Jarvie" in the play.

Marian Poynt Gill as Mile. Epinard.

Sigrid Pedersen, Rennie Pedersen, Edna Dwyer, Odessa L. Benedict, Ethel Bauer, Mamie Ross, Edna Dwyer, Nellie Pinkerton, Mrs. John Reed, Edith Godbe, Vera Lynn, Christine Johnson, Clara White, Sophie Brodbeck, Katherine Adams, Norlene Thompson, Helen Reddell, Leland Clayton, Carrie Boyd, Edna Coates, Vivian Drew, Florence Foster, Nettie Raleigh, Margaret Harley, Anna Luft, Emily Hull, Olivia Brodbeck, Hallie Meta Roettcher, Eleanor Cannon and Sybil Geary.

The advance sale bespeaks crowded houses. Special concessions have been made to school children for the matinee, all children under 12 years of age being admitted for 25 cents.

The opera will be thoroughly revised to fit Ogden and will be presented at the Grand opera house in the Junction City next Friday evening.
